

Flirt Coaching

Watch Sage University Online to learn how to attract the man or woman of your dreams

Nearly every day someone talks to us about how hard it is to find a life partner. “I can meet lots of men (or women)” they tell us. “But I don’t know how to get someone interested in intimacy or relationship.”

Some folks might like living alone. But others find that intimacy and family add an essential quality to their lives.

Wise people understand that their private life and their career are part and parcel of a whole picture. We couldn’t agree more. That is why we have been teaching Family Systems and Power Couples courses for more than 30 years now. Many of our graduates have produced great partnerships and great families. Now some of their kids are old enough to have kids.

But you won’t find a partner by acting like a wallflower. Flirting is fun. Learning to be playful with the opposite sex is the most effective way to meet the right kind of people and to explore your compatibility. Spice up your conversations by watching SageU.

The long hot summer has arrived in Spain. But the heat isn’t keeping anyone in the shadows. Toasty tourists are lining every beach. The Mediterranean is as warm as a bathtub. Our team is loving it.

The Sage Curiosity Shop is open for business. Every day Marianna and Christina entertain both tourists and locals alike. They are both fluent in Spanish and English, and Christina speaks a little German, so most folks can chat in their native tongue as they browse our selection of books, audios, and videos.

Mia is on a learning binge, fervently studying the great psychologists, so she has been seen to lift a few books from the shelves for her own use. Oh well, it is her store after all.

Flirting is adult play. It isn’t just something you do to meet new people and win their amorous attention. Healthy couples organize their relationship around affectionate conversations and physical play. They do it for the same reason that children play.

Whether you want to connect with interesting new people or rekindle dormant passion, flirting provides the spark you need to build a roaring fire between you and a member of your favorite sex.

We are the only university that treats flirting as a serious verbal art, on par with theater and film training. So if you are ready to change your life by bringing in a new team, we have the training you need to fulfill you desire.

WHAT'S NEW

Greetings from Mia

Lately I have become fascinated with Freud, Jung, Maslow, Erickson, Fromm, and Carl Rogers. As you know, the Coaching profession is a hybrid of Psychology and Performance disciplines, such as sports and music. At this stage in my own education, I have suddenly become very interested in the psychology side of the family tree. Whenever I disappear these days, you can be sure to find me curled up with Hall & Lindsey's famous Theories of Personality, or with a volume of CG Jung.

There are whole worlds of events that are available for us to enter for the price of a little exploration. I feel fortunate to be spending my days with my own personal professor, Martin Sage. Together we share deep and profound conversations about the great figures that gave birth to our profession. It is amazing how understanding the history of human development is deepening my perceptiveness.

I was reading Carl Rogers the other day when I came across a passage about how his theories disturbed the field of psychology. Now he is one of the classics. He interpreted his impact on the field at that time as a good sign. He viewed criticism as feedback that he must be on to something really important. Somehow that made me feel better about the blowback we get sometimes. And did you know that Freud's sisters perished in the concentration camps? A lot of people paid a high price to get us here.

To become part of the evolution of psychology and coaching, we need people that can type seminar lectures and coaching sessions. Transcribing is the best way to learn coaching. If you want to improve your private sessions by volunteering email us at info@sageuniversity.com.

Beginning this autumn, we are going to start offering 4-day classes to share the history and development of coaching and psychology. So any time you attend a 6-day practitioner training, you can extend your trip for a few extra days to deepen your knowledge and understanding of our wonderful profession.

To earn your Bachelor's degree from Sage University requires 30 classroom days per year, either on Ibiza, or in a major city near you. This new academic option makes it possible to complete ten of your required days within a single trip to our lovely island.

Family Systems Training

This month on Ibiza we are delighted to offer Family Systems 202. The focus this year is on strategic intervention. How do you approach a troubled husband or wife in a private session? What is the role of clinical hypnosis in family intervention? Is there any validity to the family constellation approach to coaching and therapy?

You should leave this course with a working knowledge of Ericksonian hypnotherapy, which is much closer to the source than typical NLP training. You will master skills that you can use to bring harmony to homes and businesses of your clients. If you are ready to master new coaching skills, this is the course for you.

On Writing Well (Aug 04-07)

Coaches, trainers and consultants that have written good books earn 10 to 20 times more than those that have thought about it. If you want to join the ranks of the successful you had better clear your schedule right now and get your ass in a seat in Santa Eulalia for this 4-day adventure. You might need writing instruction. You might need a project plan. You might need a ghostwriter or an editor. You might need a research team to gather data for you. But none of those needs are going to get fulfilled until you master a few basic skills of storytelling and organization. On Writing Well puts you in the company of other inspired and inspiring professionals that are also in the process of learning how to communicate through the printed page.

When you sign up for this course you get an assignment to begin and a free private session to show you how. The earlier you sign up and get started, the more value you will create from the class. Stop thinking about what you will do one day. Sign up now and get your instructions, so that next year you will be one of the few that stand above the crowd as a successful author.

The Feminine Mystique

“There is something you got, that makes me work all day.” These lyrics from a famous rock song hint at something magical and powerful that women possess—a feminine mystique that can stop a man in his tracks or send him off on a life-defying adventure to please his mate.

Now Mia Sage is taking the Feminine Mystique seminar to Munich. You can join her July 29-31 for three delightful days of basking in feminine energy with other appreciative women—all committed to putting aside judgments, opening their hearts, and sharing courage and respect with each other. The aim is to restore the female energies through playfulness and through deep exploration of your finest qualities.

Diversity Training

Ibiza

(August 26-31)

Corporate events move a lot more money for a lot less effort. But the training is rigorous. It isn't for everyone. Training corporate people requires constancy and consistency and you have to know what you are doing. The 6-day Diversity Training provides the setting you need to rehearse your classroom presentations and your sales strategies for all sorts of cross-cultural training and communication training. We have plenty of experience and years of success with large and small companies, and we want to share our skills with you. If you are ready to jump to the next level, be sure to sign up now for this rigorous event.

How To Talk to Men 6-Day

Ibiza

(September 05-10)

Professional coaches teach women to communicate better with men. Here you learn to lift your connections to men up to a whole new level, and how to share that ability by training other women. This is where you learn to earn your living as a relationship coach. If you are ready to open a new dimension in the dialogue between the sexes, this course will open your eyes to what is possible with men. Open your heart to release all the love you want to share. If you are willing to give up your assumptions and put aside your history, you can win the protection and productivity of a few good men.

Now you can also audit this course via Skype. You just tune into to the course from home—no flight, no hotel, and a big reduction in your tuition. You are part of the class and part of the fun without having to travel or leave your family. Email Mia Sage for details.

Self-Actualization

Ibiza

(September 24-30)

You cannot release all the energy locked up inside of you until you release your self from the cage of guilt and shame that make you hold back. Unconscious self-doubt drags down your vitality and blocks others from giving you their energy. Living life fully requires your total commitment and belief in your innate goodness. You are just as magnificent as a lion in the jungle or a dolphin in the sea. The only difference is that noisy voice in your head and that painful constriction in your chest that make you feel small despite all the evidence to the contrary.

Your body and mind are wondrous works of nature and your love is the very expression of divine beauty and grace. The only one that doesn't seem to know that is you. Self-Actualization reveals the dark side of your nature. As you learn to accept the animus or anima—the animal nature--you begin to unwind years of stress and tension that have blocked your mental, emotional, and sexual self-expression.

God wants you to be rich and happy and sexually alive. If you are ready to stop fighting against your sacred nature, put aside a full week for us so that we can rock your world on Ibiza.
